

The First Self-Referential Story in ~~the~~ Creative Writing GC. 609

This statement tells you about ~~the~~ ^{the} a king in Scotland. This statement uses the fact that ~~the~~ ^{the} earlier one forgot to mention the king's name. This statement uses the fact that ~~the~~ ^{the} the earlier one forgot to mention the king's name. This one puts an end to the suspense and mentions the king as Edward. This statement doesn't really do much. This one on the other tells you that Edward had two sons, but their names were ~~not~~ neither Jim nor Bill. This sentence classifies Edward as eccentric, rich and quite handsome. The next sentence gives away the whole plot of the story. The earlier statement lied. This one tells you that Edward's younger son was powerhungry and plotted to kill both his father and elder brother in order to ~~to~~ ~~to~~ become king. This statement tells us that he was ~~mightily~~ ~~successful~~ and ~~did indeed~~ rule Scotland ~~this~~ his kingdom. ~~This sentence may end~~ the story. ~~totally~~ unsuccessful and was ~~sent~~ ~~and~~ banished from the kingdom. This sentence may end the story.

Edward This statement is part of a circular story. This one talks of a young, ~~handsome~~ ^{handsome} guy named Edward. This statement wonders if you have heard of Edward before. This sentence is actually from another story where this girl is passionately making love to her lover. This ~~the~~ one wishes that it was part of that more exciting story ~~that~~ than this one. This sentence knows that just like itself, the earlier sentences are just there to fill up this ~~page~~ paragraph. This one, however gets you back to the ~~story~~ ^{happy} note by telling you that Edward ~~has~~ ^{is} ~~committed~~ ~~to~~ thoroughly enjoying himself. This ~~so~~ ~~is~~ sentence knows that it should have told the reader earlier that Edward was in a remote part of Scotland.

~~depressed~~ and ~~likely~~ to ~~take an extreme step~~. This ~~stat~~ sentence realises that you may not know who Edward is and how he is important to us. This statement takes up some time before revealing that Edward in fact is the ~~son of the~~ king since both his father and ~~son~~ ~~have~~ brother have died in a hunting accident.

~~609~~ ~~609~~

~~609~~

[609]